Touching New Memoir, "What Ronnie Sue Knew," Pays Tribute to Lessons Learned From a Mother's Love

SUFFERN, NY (date)

Suffern resident Stacey Tirro, author of How Do We Feel Right Now, brings you her debut memoir, What Ronnie Sue Knew: Recalling a Life of Love and Sparkle.

What Ronnie Sue Knew will be available in paperback and ebook on September 6 on Amazon Books. Pre-order the ebook today!

BOOK DESCRIPTION

At the end of Ronnie Sue's courageous battle with cancer, author Stacey Tirro had a rare opportunity to spend one last week by her mom's side, and shared a list of lessons she learned from her mom over the course of her lifetime. This inspired an impromptu interview that unlocked a wealth of memories and recollections. Snapshots of a lifetime flashed across her laptop screen, and a tapestry of personal connections emerged. Tirro lovingly weaves those stories in with her own life experience and delves into a cathartic journey of processing her own grief over the loss of Ronnie Sue.

TESTIMONIAL

"I would never dare to say that I would be able to capture the essence of Ronnie Sue in writing. Somehow, her daughter was able to do just that. The grace, elegance, integrity, love, and courage that was Ronnie Sue is here for all to experience." ~ Marc Hoberman, author of Amazon Best Seller Adversity Defeated: Turn Your Struggles Into Strengths

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Stacey Tirro is a dance, theatre, and fitness educator at Spring Valley High School and the author of the docudrama How Do We Feel Right Now? A collection of raw thoughts in the aftermath of senseless tragedy, which her students of Thespian Troupe 721 produced virtually in December 2020. Her work has been highlighted in American Theatre Magazine, Theatrefolk, The Unsealed, Strong Women Project Magazine, and Erika's Lighthouse. Her new podcast, A Moment of Mindful Meditation, is available on Spotify and Apple Podcasts. Find out more at her website www.staceytirro.com.
